

2009

Monty Alexander ... stole the show last night ... We had heard Monty at Art Park about ten years ago and we were bothered by his hyperactive quoting of so many songs that you forget what song he is playing. He did a bit of that last night ... but it was all in the name of a thoroughly entertaining show. And entertaining alone would sell Monty way short. He did a song of his called "Hope" with a bowed bass solo that almost made me cry it was so beautiful.